Civil Air Patrol Cadets to Receive Powered and Glider Orientation Flights
Jean, NV

NORTH LAS VEGAS, NV: Civil Air Patrol cadets will be participating in orientation flights on Sunday, February 10, 2013 at Jean Airport just south of Las Vegas, NV.

The primary goal of the Civil Air Patrol (CAP) cadet orientation flight program is to share with cadets the thrill of flying and an awareness of safety during all phases of aviation operations. Cadets under the age of 18 are eligible to receive hands-on orientation flights in single-engine aircraft and gliders, at no cost to them.

*Nellis Composite Squadron is located in North Las Vegas, Nevada and meets at the Nellis Air Force Base Airman Leadership School on Tuesday evenings. With over 95 members, the Nellis Composite Squadron supports all three Civil Air Patrol primary missions; Aerospace Education, Cadet Programs and Emergency Services. Youth ages 12-20 are eligible to join the cadet program with senior leadership positions available for those 18 or older.
